LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN STATES

Beecher on Strikes

NEW YORK, May 20 — The wood carvers, cabinetmakers and upholsterers have resolved to strike for the eight hour system. Henry Ward Beecher preached last night on the labor strikes. In the course of his sermon he said that in this unanimous rising of the laboring classes he recognized one of the most promising signs of the times. He compared capitalists to the herd of swine into which the unclean spirits entered, and said he considered the strikers' demands perfectly just and reasonable. He was in entire sympathy with the movement.

Internationals

NEW YORK, May 20 — A split is threatened in the Internationals. The other day the Federal Council met in the morning and held a very stormy session. Sections 2 and 10, both French—the first of which is the oldest in the country—presented their withdrawal, and some confusion ensued. Excited speeches and mutual recriminations among the excited members were with difficulty restrained by the Chairman and more temperate members. The difficulty seems to be that the withdrawing Sections failed to indorse the ultra views of the party who were responsible for the recent Presidential nomination. At Apollo Hall several other Sections dissatisfied for the same reason met, and the announcement was made of a split in the Internationals of London and the calling of a new general council to be denominated the Universal Federalist Council.

Factory Burned

NEW YORK, May 20 — Myers & Lowenstein's varnish factory at Hunter's Point was burned yesterday. Loss $100,000, insured for $60,000. Two firemen were severely injured by an explosion in the building.

More of the Philadelphia Fire

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 — The firemen are still playing on the smouldering ruins of Jaynes building. Valera Hotel was crushed to-day by the falling of the eastern wall of the Commercial List office. The front walls are uninjured. About 400 persons were thrown out of employment by the fire and the loss will reach at least half a million dollars.

Fire and Loss of Life

MEMPHIS, May 20 — Four children were burned to death in this city on Saturday last by an explosion of coal oil with which the eldest was kindling a fire.

Political Rumor

ST LOUIS, May 20 — The Republican of this morning states that it has reliable advices from Washington of a bold scheme by the administration party to secure the re-election of Grant. The plan as stated is that a number of influential Southern men will be invited to Washington without being informed of what they were to come for. Some of these gentlemen are now in that city, to whom the propositions have been made that if they will send delegates from the Southern States to Baltimore, introduce and demand a Democratic nomination, or to bolt the Convention in case it refuses to take that step and make a nomination, the administration party will pass a bill to refund the cotton tax and grant aid to the Atlanta and Great Western Canal of Georgia and grant aid and subsidy to other Southern enterprises, and schemes now before Congress. The Republican says it is stated that one or two Southern men who are interested in the above enterprises favor the propositions.

Secretary Seward on the Treaty

The Herald publishes an interview with Ex Secretary Seward on the Alabama question. Seward favors the adoption of the supplemental article and thinks England will agree to it. He referred to the Johnson-Clarendon treaty as a means of overcoming all difficulty. In the case stated he said the people, if dissatisfied with the Washington treaty, should urge the Government to bring up the former and have it ratified by the Senate.

General Grant

In a leading article on the state of parties the New York Herald says:

An absurd rumor is afloat of an attempt on the part of Secretary Boutwell and others to induce the Philadelphia Convention to put some other candidate than General Grant into the field, and a few of the bolting Republican organs, dissatisfied with Greeley's nomination, are urging such a policy. Of course no such fatal blunder would be committed by sane men. The strength of the Republican party is in the name, the personal character and the general success of the administration of President Grant. Four years ago he carried their banner to victory and secured to them the fruits of their triumph in the war of the rebellion. It was Vicksburg and Appomattox that won the fight for them at that time. It is Vicksburg and Appomattox, strengthened by a straightforward honesty and sincerity in the administration of the civil government for the last four years, that will give them the victory in November next.

The States of Kansas and Missouri have recently passed laws requiring the registration of city, county or town bonds in the office of the State Auditor. The law provides that the State shall collect the taxes and pay the interest on such bonds.

NASAL CATARRH.

[DISEASE TENDING TO CONSUMPTION.]

THIS IS A CHRONIC AFFECTION OF THE MUCOUS membrane of the nostrils or the throat, arising [illegible] in irritation or inflammation, and attended by more or less discharge. It is one of the most common, most disgusting, and finally, most destructive of [illegible] to the variable climate of our northern [illegible].

In its early stages Catarrh often fails to [illegible] the patient's attention so [illegible] is its approach. This is an unfortunate circumstance [illegible] the most [illegible] period for treatment is then [illegible], and to the peculiar [illegible] to extend [illegible] to the frontal sinuses, [illegible] the tubes to the middle ears, and down [illegible] the larynx, trachea, and bronchia, to the air cells of the lungs.

The discharge from the affected part is at first a clear fluid which may escape [illegible], unless it [illegible] to be of a more than usually acrid [illegible]. As time goes on this gives place to a fluid that is thicker, and of a yellowish green color, and still later this may be [illegible] by thick flakes or scales.

In all the more advanced stages the [illegible] are generally offensive [illegible] odor, [illegible] to one's friends and to the patient [illegible], while his sense of smell remains. This annoyance from the odor becomes almost beyond endurance, when, as [illegible] happens, the delicate bones of the nose [illegible].

Some cases early [illegible] the form of Dry Catarrh. There is then a feeling of uneasiness, heat and stiffness in the nostrils, which are often (one or both at times) closed by thickening of the mucous membrane, and thus a difficulty of breathing [illegible].

On examining the nostrils in Chronic Catarrh, with instruments specially adapted to that purpose, we find their lining membrane thickened and of a [illegible] color than in health. There are seen [illegible] the points of ulceration, upon which the secretion becomes hardened and forms [illegible]. When these are picked off the [illegible] surface is [illegible] and frequently bleeds profusely.

In each case of Catarrh the [illegible] are determined by the direction in which the [illegible]. If this be upward there may be pain over and between the eyes, [illegible] of the lachrymal [illegible] causing the tears to flow over the [illegible] and [illegible] inflammation of the eyes. If backward, there will be thickening of the walls of the Eustachian tubes, and consequent tendency to their obstruction, [illegible] of the middle ear [illegible] in the head and [illegible] of hearing. When the extension is downward, the voice becomes hoarse or whispering and [illegible] cough comes on with expectoration and [illegible] to be followed too often by Consumption and D[illegible].

In cases where the bones of the nose become [illegible], not only is the offensiveness of the breath increased, but there is a liability to serious personal deformities, among which are flattening of the nose.

The swallowing of catarrhal secretions deranges the functions of the stomach, causing indigestion and loss of appetite. Debility, paleness, lassitude, [illegible] and disturbance of mind soon follow. In some [illegible] the mental affection is one of irritability, the patient being unduly annoyed by all the little perplexities of life. In others the prominent feeling is that of melancholy or depression of spirits when the invalid can see no hope for himself or his affairs.

Allusion has been made to the extension of Catarrh by continuity of surface along the natural air passages to the substance of the lungs, thus causing Consumption and Death. In this connection it should also be remembered that the air which enters the lungs of a [illegible] is, every breath of it, poisoned by exhalations from the foul secretions of the diseased surface. By such air the blood cannot be properly purified and made fit to impart healthy vigor in its unending circuit to all and every part of the animal mechanism. One would suppose that this consideration alone would be sufficient to induce every person thus afflicted to make early application for relief.

The treatment of Catarrh is in part constitutional, whereby the energies of the whole system are called to aid in expelling its destructive enemy. It is in part local, whereby the discharge is made less offensive, diminished and finally arrested, and whereby the ulcerated surface is healed and restored to its normal condition.

By means of new and ingenious apparatus Dr. Aborn is able in Catarrh and all other affections of the respiratory organs to apply his remedies directly to the desired localities. Treatment is thus made more efficient as well as less disagreeable. In many cases the first application of the topical treatment will change the character of the disease and materially purify the breath.

Further Tricks in the Lock Game

When [illegible] Wallam[illegible] [illegible] al corp[illegible] [illegible] Chinese[illegible] [illegible] Jr [illegible] employ[illegible] work on the Locks [illegible] labor [illegible] tion [illegible] Locks has published a statement [illegible] erday 20th over his own signature [illegible] he says

I was authorized by Capt [illegible] the Company, on the [illegible] April [illegible] O'Neil, in Sacramento [illegible] arrangement [illegible] from 200 to 300 good Chinamen [illegible] the work until after the 3d June election day Cap Smith likewise carries in his pocket a card [illegible] Chinaman who have offered [illegible] with Chinamen

To the above the following statement is subjoined

The week before last [illegible] Teal [illegible] in the Cliff House that he intended to put [illegible] Chinamen at work on the Locks as soon as he could get them This statement was in the presence of Ex Gov A C Gibbs, A F Forbes, Attorney at law, Oregon City, and others The Locks Company has already contracted for [illegible] 200 Chinamen to come on the works on the [illegible] day of June That day all the white laborers will be discharged

This, then, reveals the game of the Locks Company It discloses that Company as a political machine, making an effort to accomplish its further purposes by effort in the election Does it want more legislation [illegible] it resolved to have another subsidy? It seems that its purpose is to use the white men now in its employ to elect the ticket it wants in Clackamas county and then dismiss those men from the work and fill their places with Chinese This Company knows from what sort of Legislature it received that bonus of $75,000 two years ago Isn't it just possible that it wants another Legislature of the same kind? What other interest can it have in the election? Many of the men engaged on the work hearing that Chinamen are to be employed in their room immediately after the election are quitting their places and seeking employment elsewhere. This action has created quite a stir among the Democratic politicians of Clackamas, and they are making every effort to induce the men to remain till after the 3d of June Facts like these all tend to the conclusion that the Company has gone into politics, and is making every exertion to stifle the voice of the people of Clackamas county in order to get additional legislation when the Assembly meets.

Democratic Extremity

Democracy in Multnomah county is in extremity. A so-called Democratic Convention assembled and "endorsed" a ticket of a ring staked and piebald character of as many colors as Jacob's spotted cattle which had been selected by half a dozen quasi Republicans, and an attempt is being made to force this ticket on the Democrats of the county But there is general rebellion Already the managers are alarmed and are seriously discussing the propriety of recalling the Democratic Convention in order to present a straight Democratic ticket. For the sake of the promised support of fifteen or twenty Republican impracticables who always 'bolt' no matter what ticket is nominated the Democratic managers have "endorsed" this hybrid ticket and now they see the result of their action in a general revolt. Unless something is done to fix matters up, the railroads on the morning of election will be taxed to their utmost capacity to carry away Democrats who want to go a-fishing, while a large per centage of those who remain will vote the Republican ticket. General disgust is manifested among the Democrats of the county, and they are deserting by platoons. It has been said that the Republican ticket was nominated by a "ring." But it is certain that the ticket which Democrats are asked to support was nominated by a little clique of Republican bolters who have no following and represent nobody Democrats see no reason why they should support such a ticket as this, and hundreds are resolved not to do it

For the benefit of the Herald which considers our estimate of the vote of Multnomah county much too large, and points to that estimate as an evidence that the Republicans meditate "fraud," we would state that an actual count of the names in the Portland Directory for 1872, not including names of women or Chinese, shows the number to be 3,128. This enumeration does not include East Portland names. Our estimate of the vote of Multnomah county was 3 000 to 3 200 We are convinced that this estimate is rather under than over the real number We should not be surprised if the vote of the county goes up to 3,500 In the Directory for 1872 the names of 3,689 residents are recorded, against 2,268 in 1871 This will afford some idea of the growth of Portland Is the Directory a "fraud?" The voters of the county outside of Portland and East Portland number several hundred, and the number has considerably increased during two years past. It is to be regretted that our neighbor is unable to keep pace with the growth of the country

Whenever the Herald can hear of a defalcation in the Federal administration it is very quick to parade it and is unstinted in its comments on "Radical corruption" But when a Democratic defalcation occurs the course of the Herald is quite different There is authentic information that a prominent official of Grant county is a defaulter to the extent of several thousand dollars, and has absconded But does the Herald unbottle its indignation? Not a word It's of no consequence that Oregon is cheated out of a large sum of money by a Democratic official but when a defalcation under the National administration comes to light the Herald is inconsolable.

Gen Brinkerhoff a leading man in the Ohio delegation to the Cincinnati Convention has published a letter in which he declares that the nomination of Mr Greeley is most unsatisfactory He says that the Liberal Republicans of Ohio will wait and see what other Conventions do before they decide upon their course of action

Cincinnati German papers say that among Germans the result of the Convention was general and bitter disappointment They denounce in vehement language the bargain which resulted in the nomination of Greeley and Brown, and declare that the Germans of the country cannot and will not support the ticket

A telegram from Eugene City states that Attorney General Williams spoke yesterday at that place to the largest audience ever assembled there Much interest was evinced Republicans in Lane county are working with energy and enthusiasm and will give a good account of themselves

Obstructionists

[illegible] know with what eagerness [illegible] many years Oregon awaited [illegible] capital within her borders sufficient to create internal improvements on a scale commensurate with the wants and necessities of a great and growing State For many years this consummation was delayed [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

But a political party has reduced to desperate shifts and expedients has abandoned the real purposes of political organization and has concentrated all its efforts against the development of the railway system in Oregon It did this two years ago when it made so fierce a fight against the railway interests of the southern part of the State It is in the same business again Its whole policy is and always has been of traditional opposition to practical methods of internal improvement It opposed our homestead laws it fought the Pacific Railroad it has in general antagonized all schemes for the improvement of rivers and harbors and for the promotion of commercial interests by Government aid When it has done anything it has done it in the interest of a ring and as a corrupt job as is notably the case with the improvement at Wallamet Falls In our own State it is actuated by a peculiar spite against the development of a railway system which costs the people nothing and which enhances the value of their property beyond all calculation

If the policy which this party now advocates had been followed during the last ten years we should now have no railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific shores and no prospect of any Oregon would not have a mile of railroad and her future would seem as dark and uninviting as it did fifteen years ago On the success of the Republican party the party which in its first national platform adopted in 1856 struck the key note for the development of this mighty continent by announcing a policy on the internal improvements and for the construction of the great Pacific Railroad depends the continued progress of the commercial and industrial activities of our State The Democratic party has planted itself across the path of progress in this direction and the people should remove the obstruction out of the way

The Legislature at its coming session should appoint a committee of investigation on the Canal and Locks, with power to compel an exhibit of its books and the whole affairs of the company Then the people would know what it cost to procure the passage of the swindling subsidy which the Farmer charges was bought through We have the statement that first and last it cost the company between $25 000 and $30 000 to get the legislation fixed up to their liking The Herald has always consistently defended the steal of $75 000 for its share which was $500

Political Speaking at Aurora

AURORA, May 19, 1872

To the Editor of the Oregonian

Sir On yesterday evening we had the pleasure of listening to a very able and eloquent address by Mr Paul Schulze editor of the Oregon Deutsche Zeitung, on the political issues which are at present attracting the attention of the people of this State He demonstrated very clearly the benefit that must accrue to the people of the whole State from the success of the principles advocated by the Republican party, as enunciated in their platform He exposed in the most conclusive manner the corruption and venality of the last Democratic Legislature, as instanced in the passage of such corrupt measures as the Latigant bill the plundering of the School Fund to enrich Democratic pets, and the passage of the Portland Police bill whereby the citizens of Portland are assumed to be incapable of governing themselves and are consigned to the protecting care of a few Democratic ward politicians whose services to party are considered worthy of some recognition. The address of Mr Schulze occupied more than an hour in its delivery, and was replete with telling hits at the assumptions of the party now in power in this State, the aims of which are to repress the commercial interests of Oregon, to retard the progress of internal improvements, and to discourage the immigration of intelligent people from abroad, especially Germans, whose sympathies are naturally and instinctively in bitter antagonism to the corrupt and effete organization known as the Democratic party You may depend upon the German citizens of this section to stand true to the Republican colors in this canvass, as they ever have in the past

Yours, respectfully,

Further Tricks in the Lock Game

When [illegible] was [illegible] of [illegible] at [illegible] Locks [illegible] of [illegible] Oregon [illegible] employing [illegible] work on the Locks to the exclusion of white [illegible] J B H[illegible] late for [illegible] Locks has published a statement [illegible] terday over his own signature [illegible] he says

I was authorized by [illegible] to [illegible] the Company on the [illegible] April to write to [illegible] O Neil in Sacramento to make arrangements for from 200 to 300 good Chinamen [illegible] the work until after the [illegible] June [illegible] day Capt Smith likewise carries in his pocket a card of a Chinese firm who have offered to supply [illegible] with Chinamen

The week before last Jo Tra[illegible] publicly stated in the Cliff House that he intended to put [illegible] Chinamen at work on the Locks as soon as he could get them This statement was in the presence of Ex Gov A C Gibbs A F Forbes, Attorney at law Oregon City and others The Locks Company has a ready contracted for over 200 Chinamen to come on the works on the [illegible] day of June That day all the white laborers will be discharged

This, then, reveals the game of the Locks Company It discloses that Company as a political machine making an effort to accomplish its further purposes by effort in the election Does it want more legislation? Is it resolved to have another subsidy? It seems that its purpose is to use the white men now in its employ to elect the ticket it wants in Clackamas county and then dismiss those men from the work and fill their places with Chinese This Company knows from what sort of Legislature it received that bonus of $75 000 two years ago Isn t it just possible that it wants another Legislature of the same kind? What other interest can it have in the election? Many of the men engaged on the work, hearing that Chinamen are to be employed in their room immediately after the election are quitting their places and seeking employment elsewhere This action has created quite a stir among the Democratic politicians of Clackamas, and they are making every effort to induce the men to remain till after the 3d of June Facts like these all tend to the conclusion that the Company has gone into politics, and is making every exertion to stifle the voice of the people of Clackamas county in order to get additional legislation when the Assembly meets

Democracy in Multnomah county is in extremity. A so-called Democratic Convention assembled and "endorsed a ticket of a ring staked and piebald character of as many colors as Jacob's spotted cattle which had been selected by half a dozen quasi Republicans, and an attempt is being made to force this ticket on the Democrats of the county But there is general rebellion Already the managers are alarmed and are seriously discussing the propriety of recalling the Democratic Convention in order to present a straight Democratic ticket. For the sake of the promised support of fifteen or twenty Republican impracticables who always "bolt no matter what ticket is nominated the Democratic managers have "endorsed" this hybrid ticket and now they see the result of their action in a general revolt Unless something is done to fix matters up, the railroads on the morning of election will be taxed to their utmost capacity to carry away Democrats who want to go a-fishing, while a large per centage of those who remain will vote the Republican ticket General disgust is manifested among the Democrats of the county, and they are deserting by platoons It has been said that the Republican ticket was nominated by a "ring." But it is certain that the ticket which Democrats are asked to support was nominated by a little clique of Republican bolters who have no following and represent nobody Democrats see no reason why they should support such a ticket as this and hundreds are resolved not to do it

For the benefit of the Herald which considers our estimate of the vote of Multnomah county much too large, and points to that estimate as an evidence that the Republicans meditate "fraud, we would state that an actual count of the names in the Portland Directory for 1872, not including names of women or Chinese, shows the number to be 3,128 This enumeration does not include East Portland names Our estimate of the vote of Multnomah county was 3 000 to 3 200 We are convinced that this estimate is rather under than over the real number We should not be surprised if the vote of the county goes up to 3 500 In the Directory for 1872 the names of 3 689 residents are recorded, against 2,268 in 1871 This will afford some idea of the growth of Portland Is the Directory a "fraud? The voters of the county outside of Portland and East Portland number several hundred, and the number has considerably increased during two years past It is to be regretted that our neighbor is unable to keep pace with the growth of the country

Whenever the Herald can hear of a defalcation in the Federal administration it is very quick to parade it and is unstinted in its comments on "Radical corruption But when a Democratic defalcation occurs the course of the Herald is quite different There is authentic information that a prominent official of Grant county is a defaulter to the extent of several thousand dollars, and has absconded But does the Herald unbottle its indignation? Not a word It is of no consequence that Oregon is cheated out of a large sum of money by a Democratic official but when a defalcation under the National administration comes to light the Herald is inconsolable

Gen Brinkerhoff a leading man in the Ohio delegation to the Cincinnati Convention has published a letter in which he declares that the nomination of Mr Greeley is most unsatisfactory He says that the Liberal Republicans of Ohio will wait and see what other Conventions do before they decide upon their course of action

Cincinnati German papers say that among Germans the result of the Convention was general and bitter disappointment They denounce in vehement language the bargain which resulted in the nomination of [illegible] and Brown and declare that the Germans of the country cannot and will not support the ticket

A telegram from Eugene City states that Attorney General Williams spoke yesterday at that place to the largest audience ever assembled there Much interest was evinced Republicans in Lane county are working with energy and enthusiasm and will give a good account of themselves

A[illegible] with what eagerness [illegible] many years Oregon awaited [illegible] capital within her borders sufficient to [illegible] internal improvements in a scale commensurate with the wants and necessities of a great and growing State [illegible] many years the consummation was [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] to result and [illegible] results the [illegible] of very [illegible]

This [illegible] the people [illegible] of the State [illegible] very [illegible] has [illegible] no been made with [illegible] part of those who have directed the [illegible] We take it that those who built railroads as well as those who [illegible] papers are actuated by a purpose to make money And where is the wrong in one case more than in the other?

But a political party [illegible] desperate shifts and expedients has abandoned all real purposes of political organization and has concentrated all its efforts against the development of the railway system in Oregon It did this two years ago when it made so fierce a fight against the railway interests of the southern part of the State It is in the same business again Its whole policy is and always has been of traditional opposition to practical methods of internal improvement It opposed our homestead laws it fought the Pacific Railroad it has in general antagonized all schemes for the improvement of rivers and harbors and for the promotion of commercial interests by Government aid When it has done anything it has done it in the interest of a ring and as a corrupt job as is notably the case with the improvement at Wallamet Falls In our own State it is actuated by a peculiar spite against the development of a railway system which costs the people nothing and which enhances the value of their property beyond all calculation

If the policy which this party now advocates had been followed during the last ten years we should now have no railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific shores and no prospect of any Oregon would not have a mile of railroad and her future would seem as dark and uninviting as it did fifteen years ago On the success of the Republican party the party which in its first national platform adopted in 1856 struck the key note for the development of this mighty continent by announcing a policy on the internal improvements and for the construction of the great Pacific Railroad depends the continued progress of the commercial and industrial activities of our State The Democratic party has planted itself across the path of progress in this direction and the people should remove the obstruction out of the way

The Legislature at its coming session should appoint a committee of investigation on the Canal and Locks with power to compel an exhibit of its books and the whole affairs of the company Then the people would know what it cost to procure the passage of the swindling subsidy which the Farmer charges was bought through We have the statement that first and last it cost the company between $25 000 and $30 000 to get the legislation fixed up to their liking The Herald has always consistently defended the steal of $75 000 for its share which was $[illegible]00

Attorney General Williams appointment for Yamhill county is at Lafayette instead of McMinnville He will speak at the first named place on the 28th inst

Last Wednesday a large number of railroad teams passed through Roseburg going south to commence work on the railroad grade

A large panther was killed in Camas Valley last week The animal undertook to contest the right of way with a traveler but was slaughtered

Cow Creek Valley is one of the finest in Douglas county its soil is of the most productive quality and is skirted on all sides by magnificent forests

Some days ago Daniel Hawksworth a miner at work in the East Eagle Creek [illegible] fell a distance of twenty two feet in a shaft and broke his right leg

Attorney General Williams addressed the people of Lane county at Eugene yesterday A private dispatch says the meeting was the largest of a political nature ever assembled in the county

The Helix [illegible] says that on the 8th instant a cold blustering wind prevailed in Powder river valley Clouds of alkaline dust filled the air and dwelling was so tight as to prevent large quantities of it from finding its way therein It was decidedly the meanest weather experienced in Eastern Oregon for a long time

The Washington correspondent of the Eugene Journal says Mrs Mary P Sawtelle, of Salem who has been in New York completing her medical studies is at Washington trying to get legislation to aid a Woman s Real Estate Association which she organized under the laws of the State of New York the object being to encourage women to emigrate to Oregon and go to farming Colonel Kelly presented her petition in the Senate asking for a grant of land to aid in carrying out the object of the association and it was referred to the Committee on Public Lands

AURORA May 19 1872

To the Editor of the Oregonian

SIR On yesterday evening we had the pleasure of listening to a very able and eloquent address by Mr Paul Schulze editor of the Oregon Deutsche Zeitung on the political issues which are at present attracting the attention of the people of this State He demonstrated very clearly the benefit that must accrue to the people of the whole State from the success of the principles advocated by the Republican party as enunciated in their platform He exposed in the most conclusive manner the corruption and venality of the last Democratic Legislature, as instanced in the passage of such corrupt measures as the Litigant bill the plundering of the School Fund to enrich Democratic pets and the passage of the Portland Police bill whereby the citizens of Portland are assumed to be incapable of governing themselves and are consigned to the protecting care of a few Democratic ward politicians whose services to party are considered worthy of some recognition The address of Mr Schulze occupied more than an hour in its delivery, and was replete with telling hits at the assumptions of the party now in power in this State, the aims of which are to repress the commercial interests of Oregon, to retard the progress of internal improvements and to discourage the immigration of intelligent people from abroad, especially Germans, whose sympathies are naturally and instinctively in bitter antagonism to the corrupt and effete organization known as the Democratic party You may depend upon the German citizens of this section to stand true to the Republican colors in this canvass as they ever have in the past

Yours respectfully,
A GERMAN CITIZEN

Samuel P Warren, of Washington Territory, Charles T Warren, O S Warren, J S Lockwood, W H Hood and R N Moxham of New York and A L Winner, of Kansas City, Missouri have filed articles of incorporation for a company the object of which is to carry on the business of banking in the city of Seattle capital stock $500 000 with the right to increase the same to $2 000 000

The Idaho Standard says "A band of four or five thousand sheep were driven in from the hills on Sunday to be shorn at Hailey s stock yard The increase has been wonderful this season—twins being the result in a large majority of instances and triplets in many The condition of Mr Hailey s hands shows the climate to be unusually favorable to sheep raising

The Surveyor General s report for Montana Territory shows that 3 314 000 acres of public land are now surveyed The Register at the Land Office in Helena reports that over 300 000 acres of public land have been taken up within the last two years by actual settlers

TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 21 1872

CITY.

PREPARATIONS—The Turn Verein organization in this city are engaged in making very extensive preparations to celebrate their annual ... It will be held at the Canyon gardens on next Sunday. A large shed is being built covered with boughs and seats provided to accommodate all who may desire to attend. A good dancing floor will be built so that those fond of the sport can be furnished with a satiety of that kind of pleasure. The day will be devoted to a regular order of exercises oration etc interspersed with some fine singing and other festivities. The members will form at the Turners Hall and march in procession headed by music to the grounds. After the singing and oration dancing and displays of gymnastic feats will be the order. On Monday evening following, the Turners will give a grand ball at the Rink and give a series of exhibitions of gymnastic skill with prizes awarded to the most expert. From the expenses already incurred in the preparations it is safe to predict that it will be the grandest affair ever given in Portland by this organization.

PICNIC TO-DAY.—Agreeable to announcement—should the weather permit—the Improved Order of Red Men will hold their excursion picnic down the river. The Emma Hayward has been chartered for the express occasion and will leave the O S N Co's wharf at 9 o'clock A M. A band of music will accompany the excursionists and lend animation to the festivities by discoursing some of their best strains. Col H R Leon and is President of the Day. Dr John B Pilkington, Orator, and E J Jeffrey Grand Marshal. At the conclusion of the order of exercises the remainder of the day will be spent, until the hour to return in dancing, and 'wandering at one's own sweet will." All who wish to participate in the pleasures of the occasion and enjoy a day of bright sunshine, pleasant shade, and free pure air, should purchase a ticket and step on board.

THOSE 'JAPS'—Marshall & Co's Royal Tycoon Troupe of Japanese performers will make their first appearance at Oro Fino Theater this evening. All who have witnessed their unparalleled performances in San Francisco and elsewhere, pronounce them of a very superior character in the artistic line. The troupe consists of ten persons—eight men and two females. In referring to their performances the Victoria and Grand press state that they are incredible, and entirely beyond description, such for instance as their Pagoda balancing, top spinning on the edge of a sword, fire eating, jumping through drawn ... other marvelous sort of jugglery and ... acrobatic feats. There is but little doubt in their peculiar line but what their per... will surpass anything which this public has witnessed for a long time.

G. A. R.—The members of this organization are making very extensive preparations to observe in a becoming manner, the 30th of this month, known as Decoration Day, in the city. The exercises will be held at the Court House and will be as follows: Opening, music by the band, song, "Keller's American Hymn," opening remarks, song, "Mountains of Life." Address by Col David Taggart, prayer by Rev T L Eliot, music by the band, ceremonies dirge by the band, song, "When we were Soldier Boys" dirge, band and song, Decoration Day. Short addresses will be made by Hon George H Williams, H H Northrup Esq, Col Creighton and others.

ARRESTED AGAIN.—Daniel Riley, who was arrested on Saturday last, charged with having stolen a boat, was arraigned before Judge Denny yesterday. On motion of the District Attorney a nolle pros. was entered on the ground that the crime was alleged to have been committed in Oregon City, and that the Court had no jurisdiction in the case. The motion was entered, and Judge Denny discharged the prisoner from custody. He was soon after arrested again on a warrant issued from Oregon City, and taken up yesterday afternoon. The boat stolen was valued at $150.

SHINGLES.—The Vancouver brought over yesterday 50,000 shingles. They will be used in covering the new sawmill below the West Side depot now in course of construction. The principal portion of the frame of this structure has been raised, and the rafters and roof will soon follow. After the building has been enclosed, the machinery will be removed from the mill near the ferry ... and placed in the one below.

OUT PRACTICING.—The Neptune Rowing Club, ... were attracting so much attention about a year ago, have been out practicing several times with their four oared boat within the past five days. We learn that they intend to give a grand regatta on the Fourth of July. If they should so conclude it would afford our citizens a rare treat, besides the large numbers who will probably visit the city on that day.

THIS EVENING.—Republicans will bear in mind that Hon William C Johnson of Oregon City will address our citizens at the room of the campaign club this evening. Let there be a grand rally. Mr Johnson is an able and fluent speaker, and well worth listening to. As usual there will be music furnished by the band.

COMING UP.—The Wallamet continues to crawl slowly up toward Front street, and will reach some portions of it in the course of a few weeks at the present rate at which it is rising. Already some of the lower portions of the wharves are inundated. On Sunday night the Columbia river rose five inches.

FILLED IN.—We have observed that the chippings of stone from the new Custom House and Postoffice have been used in filling up a number of ... on our macadamized streets. The idea is a good one, as the fragments of stone are worthless for any use, and answer that purpose well.

BALLOTED—NOMINATED.—At the Republican County Convention Mr John M Breck received the nomination of Justice of the Peace for Morrison Precinct. Mr Breck has withdrawn his name and E W Ryan has been substituted by the County Central Committee.

POSTPONED.—We are authorized to state that the picnic excursion of the Sabbath school ... with the Catholic Church of this city will not take place on Thursday next as announced. The time and place will be published hereafter.

COMING CERTAIN.—Miss Anna Mehlig is coming to Portland to a certainty at last. Yesterday Mr DePrans of this city received a telegram from San Francisco in which it was stated that she would sail on next Saturday for this place.

ON THE WAY.—General Rufus Saxton of the Department of Columbia left Washington on the 11th instant on his way home. He was to come by way of Philadelphia for Mrs Saxton and will probably be here about the 5th of next month.

BREAKAGE REPAIRED.—The breakage to the new sawmill of Capt Kress, near Vancouver which occurred last week, has been about repaired. Work will be resumed in the course of a few days.

FOR SALEM.—A number of delegates took the ... train yesterday bound for Salem to attend the Grand Lodge I O O F which will ... at that place this morning at 9 o'clock.

JURY DISCHARGED.—The jury summoned in the case of Hart, for perjury was discharged on last Saturday. A venire was issued for twenty four jurors, made returnable on Monday next.

SEVERE STORM.—By a dispatch from Walla Walla to the O S N Co we learn that a severe rain-storm of more than an hour's duration visited that place yesterday.

RAISED.—The frame for the spire of the new Trinity church corner of Sixth and Pine streets has been raised. Work on this building is progressing quite rapidly.

CAUSE CONTINUED.—The cause of the United States vs M S Hart charged with fraud was continued in the U S District Court until Monday morning, 27th inst.

ADJOURNED.—The U S Circuit Court met yesterday morning. No business was transacted and the Court adjourned until next Monday morning.

ADMITTED.—Dr Charles Schumacher was admitted to citizenship in the U S District Court on last Saturday.

CIRCUIT COURT.—The Circuit Court of the Fourth Judicial District for Washington county, commenced at Hillsboro yesterday, Judge Upton presiding. The following cases were disposed of:

State of Oregon vs A McCurdy, indictment for selling spirituous liquors without license, verdict of jury, not guilty

State vs J Miller, charged with the same offense, demurrer overruled

State vs John Lousignont, continued for the term

CROWDING ON.—Every kind of improvement in the city is progressing with vigorous activity. In all directions we see new buildings springing up while the rattle of saws and hammers are heard on every side. Meantime our streets are receiving attention. We have observed defective Nicholson pavement being repaired in numberless places. The future looks bright and cheering and the permanent prospects and advancement of Portland seems an established fact.

THE SCOURGE.—By consulting the dispatches from San Francisco it will be seen that two cases of that dreadful scourge—smallpox—have been reported. Not that we desire to excite needless apprehensions here, but our city authorities should use all the precautionary vigilance in their power to prevent the disease from coming and if a case is reported here to prevent its spread by not allowing any one who has the disease to remain in the city.

MADE A MISTAKE.—An old lady, evidently from the rural "deestricts" called at a dry goods store up town the other day, and asked for a "dollar varden" hat. The courteous clerk, bowing very low, informed her that they were just out, but that he had plenty of "six dollar vardens," whereat the old lady made her exit, murmuring that she "couldn't afford such a high toned one as that."

PROMPTLY PAYING.—We are informed that all persons against whom the revenue and special income taxes have been declared due, are coming promptly forward and paying up. From present indications there will be but a very small delinquent list by the 28th instant, which is the time allotted to all to make the required payments.

'HEARTS AND HANDS.'—We notice by the Olympia papers, that Rev Dr A L Lindsley of this city delivered a lecture at that place last evening, on the above subject. Dr Lindsley seems to be winning golden opinions among the people of the Sound. All the press speak in the highest terms of his efforts.

OFF THE WHARF.—Yesterday afternoon a horse attached to a wagon backed off into the water at the foot of Morrison street. He came near being drowned but was at length drawn up on the wharf. The harness had to be nearly all cut off of the animal before he was extricated from his situation of peril.

MATERIALLY ALTERED.—The residence of Capt J C Ainsworth is being very materially altered and enlarged. The roof has been taken off, a Mansard substituted and the house in many respects improved in appearance. When completed there will be but few more handsome residences in the city.

INVITED TO JOIN.—The members of the G A R as will be seen by advertisement, cordially tenders an invitation to all the Military, Civic Societies and Associations and the Fire Department of the city, to join in the procession on the 30th inst.

IN OPERATION.—The steam "paddy," which will be used a few miles south of the city along the west side track, will be ready for active operation to day. Yesterday all the machinery was put together, and steam raised.

WHEELING EARTH.—A number of hands are engaged in wheeling dirt from where it is dumped by the cars under the new hotel of Mr Holsey. It will soon be filled up nearly level with the track on the embankment.

... —Hon J W Watts of Yamhill, and Dr ... Esq will address the citizens of Washington county at Hillsboro May 25th at 1 o'clock on the political issues of the day.

LOST.—We learn that a boat load of stone intended for the locks at Oregon City was lost last week while endeavoring to descend the Clackamas river. There was on board fifty tons of stone.

OUT.—The members of the Washington Guard were out having a street drill last evening. This Company displays considerable proficiency in the manual of arms and the different evolutions.

BROKEN.—A man whose name we could not ascertain was thrown out of a carriage yesterday by colliding with a runaway team and had his left arm fractured by the fall.

RECOVERING.—We understand that a son of Dr ... who is now in Philadelphia attending a medical school is just recovering from a severe attack of the small pox.

... —All the hands on the locks at Oregon City struck yesterday for $3. We learn that after holding out a day the contractors acceded to their demand.

LECTURE.—Dr ... delivered a lecture last evening at the New Masonic Hall to a fair audience. He will give another lecture at the same place to night.

FIRST BOAT.—The first boat ... the locks at the Oregon City fall successfully navigated the Clackamas river on Saturday last.

TWO FEET.—The Columbia river rose two feet at Walla Walla night before last. This is coming up pretty lively.

STREET DRILL.—Engine Companies Nos 1 and 2, were out having a street drill last evening.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Isaac Blum has refitted the Cosmopolitan cigar store and added new stock. See his ad this morning.

SEXUAL PHYSIOLOGY.—This will constitute the subject of a second lecture by Dr Burne at the new Masonic Hall this evening, agreeable to the request of a number of citizens. See notice in another place.

THE OUPHE OF THE WOODS

BY JEAN INGELOW

"An Ouphe perhaps you exclaim 'and pray what might that be?'

An Ouphe fair guest ouer though you may never have heard of him was a creature well known by hearsay at least to your great great grandmother It was currently reported that every forest had one within its precincts, who ruled over the woodmen, and exacted tribute from them in the shape of little blocks of wood ready hewn for the fire of his underground palace—such blocks as are bought at shops in these degenerated days, and called kindling

It was said that he had a silver axe with which he marked those trees that he did not object to have cut down moreover he was supposed to possess great riches and to appear but seldom above ground, and he did to look like an old man in all respects but one which was that he always carried some green ash keys about with him, which he could not conceal, and by which he might be known.

Do I hear you say that you don't believe he ever existed? It matters not at all to my story whether you do or not He certainly does not exist now The Commissioner of Woods and Forests have much to answer for if it was they who put an end to his reign but I do not think they did It is more likely that the spelling book used in woodland districts disagreed with his constitution

After this short preface, please to listen while I tell you that once in a little black timbered cottage, at the skirts of a wood a young woman sat before the fire rocking her baby, and, as she did so, building a castle in the air.

"What a good thing it would be,' she thought to herself, "if we were rich!"

It had been a bright day, but the evening was chilly, and, as she watched the glowing logs that were blazing on her hearth she wished that all the lighted part of them would turn to gold.

She was very much in the habit—this little wife—of building castles in the air particularly when she had nothing else to do, or her husband was late in coming home to his supper. Just as she was thinking how late he was, there was a tap at the door, and an old man walked in, who said

"Mistress, will you give a poor man a warm at your fire?"

"And welcome," said the young woman, setting him in a chair.

So he sat down as close to the fire as he could, and spread out his hands to the flames.

He had a little knapsack on his back, and the young woman did not doubt that he was an old soldier.

"Maybe you are used to the hot countries?" she said.

"All countries are much the same to me," replied the stranger. "I see nothing to find fault with in this one. You have fine hawthorne trees hereabouts; just now they are as white as snow, and then you have a noble wood behind you "

"Ah, you may well say that," said the young woman. 'It is a noble wood to us. It gets us bread. My husband works in it."

"And a fine sheet of water there is in it," continued the old man. "As I sat by it today it was pretty to see those cranes, with red legs, stepping from leaf to leaf of the water lilies so lightly "

As he spoke he looked rather wistfully at a little saucepan that stood upon the hearth

"Why, I shouldn't wonder if you are hungry," said the young woman, laying her baby in the cradle, and spreading a cloth on the round table. "My husband will be home soon, and if you like to stay and sup with him and me, you will be kindly welcome."

The old man's eyes sparkled when she said this, and he looked so very old, and seemed so weak that she pitied him. He turned a little aside from the fire, and watched her while she set a brown loaf on the table, and fried a few slices of bacon, but all was ready, and the kettle had been boiling some time, before there were any signs of the husband's return.

"I never knew Will to be so late before," said the stranger. "Perhaps he is carrying his logs to the saw-pits."

"Will!" exclaimed the wife. "What, you know my husband, then? I thought you were a stranger in these parts."

"Oh, I have been past this place several times," said the old man, looking rather confused; and so, of course, I have heard of your husband Nobody's stroke in the wood is so regular and strong as his."

"And I can tell you he is the handiest man at home," began the wife.

"Ah, ah," said the old man smiling at his eagerness; "and here he comes, and here he comes if I am not mistaken."

At that moment the woodman entered.

"Will," said his wife, as she took his bill-hook from him, and hung up his hat, "here's an old soldier come to sup with us, my dear." And as she spoke she gave her husband a gentle push toward the old man and made a sign that he should speak to him.

"Kindly welcome, master," said the woodman "Wife, I'm hungry; let's to supper."

The wife turned some potatoes out of the little saucepan, set a jug of beer on the table, and they all began to sup. The best of everything was offered by the wife to the stranger. The husband, after looking earnestly at him for a few minutes, kept silence.

"And where might you be going to lodge to-night, good man, if I'm not too bold?" asked she.

The old man heaved a deep sigh, and said he supposed he must lie out in the forest

"Well, that would be a great pity," remarked his kind hostess. "No wonder your bones ache, if you have no better shelter "

As she said this, she looked appealingly at her husband.

"My wife, I'm thinking, would like to offer you a bed," said the woodman, "at least, if you don't mind sleeping in this clean kitchen, I think we could toss you up something of that sort that you need not disdain "

"Disdain, indeed!" said the wife. "Why, Will, there is not a tighter cottage than ours in all the wood, and with a curtain as we have, and a brick floor, and everything so good about us—"

The husband laughed, the old man looked on with a twinkle in his eye.

"I'm sure I shall be humbly grateful,' said he.

Accordingly, when supper was over, they made him a bed on the floor, and spread clean sheets on it of the young wife's own spinning, and heaped several logs on the fire Then they wished the stranger good night, and crept up the ladder to their own snug little chamber

"Disdain, indeed!" laughed the wife, as soon as they had shut the door. "Why, Will, how could you say it? I should like to see him disdain me and mine. It isn't often, I'll engage to say, that he sleeps in such a well-furnished kitchen.

The husband said nothing, but secretly laughed to himself.

"What are you laughing at, Will?" said his wife, as she put out the candle.

"Why, you soft little thing,' answered the woodman, "didn't you see that bunch of ash keys in his cap, and don't you know that nobody would dare to wear them but the Ouphe of the Wood? I saw him cutting those very keys for himself as I passed to the saw-mill this morning, and I knew him again directly though he has disguised himself as an old man"

'Bless us!" exclaimed the little wife, is the Wood Ouphe in our cottage? How frightened I am! I wish I hadn't put the candle out"

The husband laughed more and more

"Will," said his wife, in a solemn voice, "I wonder how you dare laugh, and that powerful creature under the very bed where you lie?"

"And she to be so pitiful over him," said the woodman, laughing till the floor shook under him, 'and to talk and boast of our house, and insist on helping him to more potatoes, when he has a palace of his own and heaps of riches! Oh, dear! oh, dear!

"Don't laugh, Will said the wife, "and I'll make you the most dainty dish you ever tasted to-morrow Don't let him hear you laughing."

"Why, he comes for no harm," said the woodman "I've never cut down any trees that he had not marked, and I've always laid his toll of wood, neatly cut up, beside his foot-path so I am not afraid. Besides, don't you know that he always pays where he lodges, and very handsomely, too?"

'Pays! does he?' said the wife Well, but he is an awful creature to have so near one I would much rather he had really been an old soldier. I hope he is not looking after my baby—he shall not have him, let him offer ever so much

The more the wife talked, the more the husband laughed at her fears till at length he fell asleep while she lay awake thinking and thinking, till by degrees she forgot her fears, and began to wonder what they might expect by way of reward Hours appeared to pass away in these thoughts At length to her great surprise, while it was still quite dark her husband called to her from below

'Come down Kitty only come down and see what the Ouphe has left us

And quickly as possible Kitty started up and dressed herself, and ran down the ladder, and then she saw her husband kneeling on the floor over the knapsack, which the Ouphe had left behind him Kitty rushed to the spot and saw the knapsack bursting open with gold coins, which were rolling over the brick floor Here was good fortune She began to pick them up, and count them into her apron The more she gathered, the faster they rolled, till she left off counting, out of breath with joy and surprise

'What shall we do with this money?' said the delighted woodman

They consulted for some time At last they decided to bury it in the garden, all but 20 pieces which they would spend directly. Accordingly they dug a hole and carefully hid the rest of the money, and then the woodman went to the town, and soon returned laden with the things they had agreed upon as desirable possessions, namely, a leg of mutton, two bottles of wine, a necklace for Kitty, some tea and sugar, a grand velvet waistcoat, a silver watch, a large clock a red silk cloak, and a hat and feather for the baby, a quilted petticoat, a great many muffins and crumpets, a rattle and two new pairs of shoes

How enchanted they both were! Kitty cooked the nice things, and they dressed themselves in the finery, and sat down to a very good dinner But, alas! the woodman very foolishly drank so much of the wine that he soon got quite tipsy, and began to dance and sing! Kitty was very much shocked, but when he proposed to dig up some more of the gold, and go to the market for some more wine and some more blue velvet waistcoats, she remonstrated very strongly. Such was the change that had come over this loving couple, that they presently began to quarrel, and from words the woodman soon got to blows, and, after beating his little wife, lay down on the floor and fell fast asleep, while she sat crying in a corner

The next day they both felt very miserable, and the woodman had such a terrible headache that he could neither eat nor work but the day after, being pretty well again, he dug up some more gold and went to the town, where he bought such quantities of fine clothing and furniture, and so many good things to eat, that in the end he was obliged to buy a wagon to bring them home in, and great was the delight of his wife when she saw him coming home on the top of it, driving the four gray horses himself

They soon began to unpack the goods and lay them out on the grass, for the cottage was far too small to hold them

There are some red silk curtains with gold rods," said the woodman.

"And grand, indeed, they are!" exclaimed his wife, spreading them over the onion bed

"And here's a great looking glass," continued the woodman, setting up one against the outside of the cottage, for it would not go in at the door.

So they went on handing down the things, and it took nearly the whole afternoon to empty the wagon. No wonder, when it contained, among other things, a coral and bell for the baby, and five very large tea trays all adorned with handsome pictures of impossible scenery, two large sofas covered with elegant green damask, three bonnets trimmed with feathers and flowers, two glass tumblers for them to drink out of—for Kitty had decided that mugs were very ugly things—six books bound in handsome red morocco, a mahogany table, a large tin saucepan, a spittoon and silver waiter, some pictures, a dozen bottles of wine, a quarter of lamb, cakes, tarts, pies, ale, porter, gin, silk stockings, blue and red and white shoes, lace, ham, mirrors, two clocks, a four-post bedstead and a bag of sugar-candy.

These articles filled the cottage and garden—the wagon stood outside the paling. Though the little kitchen was very much encumbered with furniture, they contrived to make a fire in it; and having eaten a sumptuous dinner, they drank one another's health, using the new tumblers to their great satisfaction.

"All these things remind me that we must have another house built," said Kitty.

"You must do just as you please about that, my dear," replied her husband, with a bottle of wine in his hand.

"My dear," said Kitty, "how vulgar you are! Why don't you drink out of one of our new tumblers, like a gentleman?"

The woodman refused, and said it was much more handy to drink it out of the bottle.

"Handy, indeed!" retorted Kitty; "yes, and by that means none will be left for me"

Thereupon another quarrel ensued; and the woodman, being by this time quite tipsy, beat his wife again. The next day they went and got numbers of workmen to build them a new house in their kitchen garden. It was astonishing even to Kitty, who did not know much about building, to see how quick those workmen were. In one week the house was ready. But in the meantime the woodman, who had very often been tipsy, felt so unwell that he could not look after them, therefore it is not surprising that they stole a great many of his fine things while he lay smoking his pipe on the green damask sofa which stood on the carrot bed. These articles which the workmen did not steal, the rain and dust spoiled, but that they thought did not much matter, for still more than half the gold was left, so they soon furnished the new house And now Kitty had a servant, and used to sit every morning on a couch, dressed in silks and jewels, till dinner time, when the most delicious hot beef-steaks and sausage pudding or roast goose were served up, with more sweet pies, fritters, tarts, and cheese cakes than they could possibly eat As for the baby, he had three elegant cots, in which he was put to sleep by turns, he was allowed to tear his picture books as often as he pleased, and to eat so many sugar-plums and macaroons that they often made him quite ill

The woodman looked very pale and miserable, though he often said what a fine thing it was to be rich He never thought of going to his work, and used generally to sit in the kitchen till dinner was ready, watching the spit Kitty wished she could see him looking as well and cheerful as in old days, though she felt naturally proud that her husband should always be dressed like a gentleman—namely, in a blue coat, red waistcoat and top-boots

He and Kitty could never agree as to what should be done with the rest of the money in fact no one would have known them for the same people They quarreled almost every day and lost nearly all their love for one another Kitty often cried herself to sleep—a thing she had never done when they were poor She thought it was very strange that she should be a lady, and yet not be happy Every morning when the woodman was sober they invented new plans for making themselves happy, yet, strange to say, none of them succeeded, and matters grew worse At last Kitty thought she should be happy if she had a coach, so she went to the place where the knapsack was buried and began to dig but the garden was so trodden down that she could not dig deep enough, and soon got quite tired of trying At last she called the servant, and told her the secret as to where the money was, promising her a gold piece if she could dig it up The servant dug with all her strength, and with a great deal of trouble they got the knapsack up, and Kitty found that not many gold pieces were left However, she resolved to have the coach so she took them and went down to the town, where she bought a yellow chariot, with a most beautiful coat of arms upon it, and two cream-colored horses to draw it.

In the meantime the maid ran to the magistrates, and told them she had discovered something very dreadful, which was that her mistress had nothing to do but to dig in the ground, and that she could make money—coined money, "which," said the maid, "is a very terrible thing, and it proves that she must be a witch"

The mayor and the alderman were very much shocked, for witches were commonly believed in in those days, and when they heard that Kitty had dug up the money that very morning and bought a yellow coach with it, they decided that the matter must be investigated

When Kitty drove up to her own door she saw the mayor and alderman standing in the kitchen waiting for her She demanded what they wanted and they said they were come in the king's name to search the house

Kitty ran up stairs and took the baby out of the cradle lest any of them should steal him, which, of course seemed a very probable thing to do Then she went to look for her husband, who shocking to relate was quite tipsy, quarreling and arguing with the mayor and actually she saw him box the alderman's ears

'This thing is proved said the indignant mayor, 'this woman is certainly a witch

Kitty was very much bewildered at this but how much more when she saw her husband seize the mayor—yes, the mayor himself and shake him so hard that he actually shook his head off, and it rolled under the dresser! If I had not seen this with my own eyes' said Kitty, I could not have believed it even now it does not seem at all real

All the aldermen wrung their hands

"Murder! murder!" cried the maid

"Yes" said the aldermen, 'this woman and her husband must immediately be put to death, and the baby must be taken from them and made a slave.'

In vain Kitty fell on her knees the proofs of their guilt was so plain that there was no hope of mercy, and they were just going to be led out to execution, when—why, then she opened her eyes, and saw that she was lying in bed in her own little chamber where she had lived and been so happy, her baby, beside her in the wicker cradle, was crowing and sucking his fingers

"So, then, I have never been rich, after all," said Kitty, "and it was only a dream! I thought it was strange at the time that a man's head should roll off"

And she heaved a deep sigh, and put her hand to her face, which was wet with the tears she had shed when she thought that she and her husband were going to be executed.

"I am very glad, then, my husband is not a drunken man, and he does not beat me, but he goes to work every day, and I am as happy as a queen."

Just then she heard her husband's good-tempered voice, whistling as he went down the ladder

"Kitty, Kitty," said he," "come get up, my little woman, it's later than usual, and our good visitor will want his breakfast"

"Oh, Will, Will, do come here,' answered the wife, and presently the husband came up again, dressed in his fustian jacket, and looking quite healthy and good tempered—not at all like the pale man in the blue coat, who sat watching the meat while it roasted.

"Oh, Will, I have had such a frightful dream," said Kitty, and she began to cry "We are not going to quarrel and hate one another, are we?"

"Why, what a silly little thing thou art, to cry about a dream," said the woodman, smiling "No, we are not going to quarrel, as I know of Come Kitty, remember the Ouphe."

"Oh yes, yes, I remember," said Kitty, and she made haste to dress herself and come down.

"Good morning, mistress, how have you slept?" said the Ouphe, in a gentle voice, to her.

"Not so well as I could have wished, sir," said Kitty.

The Ouphe smiled. "I slept very well" he said. "The supper was good and kindly given, without any thought of reward."

"And that is the certain truth," interrupted Kitty, "I never had the least thought what you were till my husband told me"

The woodman had gone out to cut some fresh cresses for his guest's breakfast.

"I am sorry, mistress," said the Ouphe, "that you slept uneasily—my race are said sometimes by their presence to affect the dreams of you mortals. Where is my knapsack? Shall I leave it behind me in payment of bed and board?"

"Oh, no, no, I pray you don't," said the little wife, blushing and stepping back, "you are kindly welcome to all you have had, I'm sure; don't repay us so, sir,"

"What, mistress, and why not?" asked the Ouphe, smiling "It is as full of gold pieces as it can hold, and I shall never miss them."

"No, I entreat you, do not," said Kitty, "and do not offer it to my husband for maybe he has not been warned as I have"

Just then the woodman came in

"I have been thanking your wife for my good entertainment," said the Ouphe, and if there is anything in reason that I can give either of you—"

"Will, we do very well as we are," said his wife going up to him and looking anxiously in his face.

"I don't deny," said the woodman, thoughtfully, "that there are one or two things I should like my wife to have, but somehow I've not been able to get them for her yet"

"What are they?" asked the Ouphe

"One is a spinning-wheel," answered the woodman; "she used to spin a good deal when she was at home with her mother"

She shall have a spinning wheel," replied the Ouphe, "and is there nothing else, my good host?"

"Well," said the woodman, frankly, "since you are so obliging, we should like a hive of bees"

"The bees you shall have also' and now good morning both, and a thousand thanks to you."

So saying, he took his leave, and no pressing could make him stay to breakfast.

"Well," thought Kitty, when she had had a little time for reflection, "a spinning wheel is just what I wanted, but if people had told me this time yesterday morning that I should be offered a knapsack full of money, and should refuse it, I could not possibly have believed them!"

A bill has been introduced in the Dominion Parliament granting $20,000,000 in cash and a large land subsidy to the Canadian Pacific Railroad The initial point of the road is to be at Lake Nipissing in the province of Ontario in latitude 46° 30 about two hundred miles north west of existing railroad communication on the Ottawa river and about one hundred and fifty miles north of the Grand Trunk connection with Lake Simcoe From Lake Nipissing the line will proceed in a northwesterly direction, finding the best possible route through the difficult inhospitable and uninhabitable mass of hills and lakes on the north of Lake Superior, bending to the south of Lake Winnipeg, and crossing the Red river in the neighborhood of Fort Garry in Manitoba. The distance from Nipissing to Fort Garry will be one thousand miles Leaving the Red river the line will again stretch to the northwest passing through the plains of the Swan river territory and striking the southern waters of the Saskatchewan, about in latitude 53°. Thence it will proceed due west, and cross the Rocky Mountains wherever a practicable pass can be found; after which it will turn northward again to avoid the great bend in the Columbia river Having got safely around that, it will strike southwardly and reach the Gulf of Georgia in latitude 49 30 not far north of the boundary line separating Canada from the United States The length of the line from Lake Nipissing to Puget Sound is estimated at 2,700 miles But doubts are reasonably expressed whether capitalists can be induced to take hold of a road so large a portion of which must traverse an inhospitable region not likely ever to be valuable excepting for its mineral wealth, and which for a considerable portion of the year, will be subject to snow blockades.
